취미 두 가지를 나열한 뒤 시간을 확보하는 방법과 바뀐 습관을 연결하세요.

Please introduce yourself and tell me how you make time for hobbies when you are busy.

IL

I work during the week. I enjoy swimming and going to local events in my free time.

IM

I have a busy work schedule, so I keep my hobbies simple. I swim when I have time and sometimes visit a local festival with my family. These activities help me relax.

IH

Most of my weekdays are organized around work and everyday responsibilities. I make time for hobbies by choosing activities that are easy to fit into my schedule. Swimming gives me a clear break from work, while a local event gives my family something to enjoy together. I do not need a special plan every weekend.

AL

I tend to be fairly practical about my free time. My workdays can be busy, so I choose hobbies that I can enjoy without spending hours preparing. Swimming is a good example because I can focus on one activity and stop thinking about unfinished tasks for a while. When I want to spend time with my family, I look for a small event nearby. I used to wait for a completely free weekend, but that rarely happened. These days, I set aside a manageable amount of time and protect it. That small change has made my weeks feel much more balanced.

CHECK · set aside time / fit into my schedule

Q2 · 수영 장소와 일상

Full Simulation 14

시설의 특징과 방문 순서, 개인적인 선호 이유를 함께 설명하세요.

Describe a swimming pool you like. What is it like, and what do you usually do there?

IL

I like an indoor pool near my home. I swim there in the evening. It helps me relax.

IM

The pool I use is indoors and has several lanes. I usually go after work when I have enough time. I swim at a comfortable pace and take short breaks. I like having a clear routine.

IH

My favorite pool is a public indoor facility near my home. The building is simple, but the changing area is clean and the lanes are clearly marked. I usually choose a quieter time and follow the posted lane rules. I swim a few lengths, rest briefly, and continue. The familiar routine makes it easy to focus.

AL

The pool I like is an indoor facility that is close enough to visit without turning exercise into a major trip. It has separate lanes and a bright changing area, so finding my way around is straightforward. I usually check the session time before leaving home, because I do not want to arrive just before closing. Once I get there, I choose a suitable lane and swim at a pace I can maintain. I am not trying to compete with anyone. What I enjoy is having a simple routine that requires my attention. By the time I leave, my mind usually feels quieter.

CHECK · at a comfortable pace / a familiar routine

Q3 · 수영 과거 경험

Full Simulation 14

배경과 무리한 행동, 친구의 제안, 달라진 마음을 과거 시제로 서술하세요.

Tell me about a memorable time you went swimming. What happened, and why do you remember it?

IL

I once went swimming with a friend. I was slow, but my friend encouraged me. I felt proud afterward.

IM

One evening, I went swimming with a friend who was much faster than me. At first, I tried to keep up and got tired. I slowed down and followed my own pace. I enjoyed the rest of the session.

IH

A memorable swimming experience happened when I visited the pool with a friend. I felt embarrassed about being slower and tried to match his speed. After a few lengths, I realized that I was no longer enjoying myself. My friend suggested that we swim separately and meet during breaks. That helped me relax and finish the session comfortably.

AL

One evening, I went to the pool with a friend who swims regularly. I knew he was faster, but I still found myself trying to keep up. After a few lengths, I was tired and frustrated, which was the opposite of what I wanted from the evening. During a break, I admitted that I was focusing too much on his pace. He laughed kindly and suggested that we follow our own routines and meet at the end of the session. Once I stopped comparing myself with him, I enjoyed swimming again. I remember that evening because it changed how I approach a hobby.

CHECK · keep up with / follow my own pace

Q4 · 수영 습관 변화

Full Simulation 14

과거와 현재를 같은 기준으로 비교하고 변화의 계기를 설명하세요.

How has your attitude toward swimming changed? Compare your earlier expectations with your approach now.

IL

I used to focus on speed. Now I care more about enjoying the activity and going regularly.

IM

When I first started swimming, I wanted to improve quickly. I compared myself with other people. Now I choose a realistic routine and pay attention to how I feel afterward. Regular practice matters more to me.

IH

At first, I treated every visit as a test of progress. If I did not swim farther or faster, I felt disappointed. Over time, I realized that this attitude made a relaxing activity stressful. These days, I set smaller goals and adjust the session to my available time. I still enjoy improving, but I value consistency more.

AL

My attitude has become much less competitive. When I first started going to the pool, I thought every session should show a clear improvement. I counted lengths and paid too much attention to people in the next lane. That approach gave me something to measure, but it also made ordinary days feel disappointing. Now I consider a session worthwhile if I spend some focused time away from work and leave feeling refreshed. I still notice progress, but I do not expect it every time. The biggest change is that swimming has become a habit I want to continue rather than a performance I need to judge.

CHECK · over time / value consistency

Q5 · 지역 축제 묘사

Full Simulation 14

장소와 볼거리, 동선과 추천 이유를 구체적으로 묘사하세요.

Describe a local festival you would recommend. What can visitors see and do there?

IL

I like a small neighborhood festival. There are food stalls and music. Families can walk around together.

IM

I would recommend a local festival held near a community park. Visitors can watch short performances and explore small stalls. I like it because people can enjoy the event without planning a whole trip.

IH

The local festival I enjoy is held in an open area near a park. There are craft stalls, simple food options, and a small stage. Visitors can stay for one performance or spend longer walking around. The relaxed atmosphere is its main attraction. I would recommend checking the program first and choosing one activity to focus on.

AL

I would recommend a small community festival rather than a huge event that takes an entire day to navigate. The one I have in mind uses an open space near a park, with a stage on one side and stalls along the paths. Visitors can look at handmade items, try a snack, or watch a short performance. What makes it enjoyable is the freedom to move at your own pace. You do not have to complete a list of attractions to feel that the visit was worthwhile. I would check the program beforehand, choose one performance, and leave some time to wander around.

CHECK · at your own pace / check the program

Q6 · 지역 축제 문제 경험

Full Simulation 14

문제가 생긴 배경과 모호한 연락, 구체적인 해결 지점을 연결하세요.

Tell me about an unexpected problem at a festival or public event. How did you handle it?

IL

I once lost track of a friend at a festival. We called each other and met near the entrance.

IM

At a local festival, my friend and I stopped at different stalls and became separated. The area was noisy, so messages were confusing. We chose a clear meeting point near the entrance and found each other.

IH

One festival became much busier than we had expected. My friend went to buy a drink while I stayed near a craft stall, but we could not find each other afterward. Instead of continuing to move around, we agreed by phone to meet beside the main information sign. Within a few minutes, we were together again and could enjoy the event.

AL

At a festival last autumn, my friend and I assumed it would be easy to find each other after visiting separate stalls. However, a performance had just ended, and a crowd suddenly filled the path between us. We exchanged messages, but descriptions such as near the stage were too vague. I suggested that we both stop moving and choose a specific meeting point. We agreed on the information sign beside the entrance and described which side we would stand on. We met there a few minutes later. The problem was minor, but it taught me to agree on a meeting place before a crowded event begins.

CHECK · a specific meeting point / stop moving

Q7 · 지역 축제 변화

Full Simulation 14

정보 접근성의 장점과 혼잡이라는 단점을 실제 방문 관점에서 비교하세요.

How have local festivals changed over time? Describe both a benefit and a drawback.

IL

Local festivals are easier to find online now. More people visit them, but they can become crowded.

IM

In the past, I usually heard about festivals from neighbors or posters. Now I find programs online before going. Planning is easier, but popular events sometimes attract more visitors than the space can comfortably hold.

IH

Local festivals seem easier to discover and plan for than before. Online programs help visitors check the schedule, location, and available activities. Small organizers can reach people beyond the neighborhood. The drawback is that a quiet event may become crowded very quickly. Better information is useful, but organizers still need to consider how many visitors the venue can handle.

AL

The biggest change I have noticed is how quickly information spreads. In the past, I might see a poster a few days before an event or hear about it from a neighbor. Now I can look at the program and decide whether it suits my interests before leaving home. That is convenient for visitors and helpful for small organizers. On the other hand, online attention can make an event much busier than expected. A charming local space may not have enough room for a sudden crowd. I welcome easier access to information, but I think practical planning matters just as much as promotion.

CHECK · spread quickly / handle a crowd

Q8 · 집안일 일상

Full Simulation 14

주요 집안일과 우선순위, 바쁜 주간의 실행 방법을 설명하세요.

What household chores do you usually do? Explain how you organize them during a busy week.

IL

I wash dishes and do laundry. I handle small tasks after work so they do not pile up.

IM

I usually wash dishes, sort laundry, and clear the kitchen table. During a busy week, I do a little each evening. I save larger tasks for a time when I can finish them without rushing.

IH

I organize chores by separating short daily tasks from things that can wait. I wash dishes and clear shared surfaces in the evening because they affect the next morning. Laundry needs more planning, so I check when there will be time to dry and put everything away. This keeps small tasks from becoming one exhausting weekend project.

AL

I try to organize household chores around the way we actually use the space. The kitchen gets attention every evening because leaving it untidy makes the following morning more difficult. I wash dishes, clear the table, and put everyday items back where they belong. For laundry, I think about the whole process rather than just starting the machine. I need time to dry, fold, and put things away as well. During a busy week, I aim for a manageable routine instead of a perfect home. Doing a little regularly usually works better for me than waiting until everything needs attention at once.

CHECK · pile up / a manageable routine

Q9 · 집안일 돌발 경험

Full Simulation 14

시간 순서에 따라 실수와 추가 작업, 이후 바꾼 습관을 설명하세요.

Describe a time a household chore did not go as planned. What was the problem, and what did you do?

IL

I once forgot wet laundry in the machine. I washed it again and set a reminder next time.

IM

I started laundry before going out and forgot to take it out when I returned. The clothes did not smell fresh. I washed them again and changed my routine so I would be home when the cycle finished.

IH

One weekend, I thought I could fit laundry into a busy morning. I started the machine and then became distracted by several errands. By the time I remembered, the wet clothes had been sitting there for much longer than planned. I ran another wash and rearranged the drying space. Since then, I have planned chores around when I can finish them.

AL

A while ago, I started a load of laundry just before a series of errands. I told myself that I would deal with it as soon as I got home, but the errands took longer than expected. When I finally opened the machine, the clothes had been sitting wet for hours and no longer smelled fresh. I was annoyed because trying to save time had created extra work. I washed them again and made sure I had enough space to dry everything. Afterward, I began setting a reminder and checking my schedule before starting. It was a small mistake, but it made my routine more realistic.

CHECK · take longer than expected / create extra work

Q10 · 집안일 분담 의견

Full Simulation 14

보이는 노동과 계획 업무의 차이를 제시한 뒤 공정한 분담 기준을 설명하세요.

What makes sharing household chores difficult, and how can people make the arrangement fair?

IL

People have different schedules. They should discuss the work and agree on who will do each task.

IM

Sharing chores is difficult when people have different ideas about what needs to be done. A clear conversation helps. I think people should consider time and effort instead of only counting the number of tasks.

IH

The difficulty is that some work is visible and some is easy to overlook. Washing dishes can be seen immediately, while noticing that supplies are running low takes attention. A fair arrangement should include both planning and physical work. People also need to review the plan when their schedules change instead of assuming the first agreement will always work.

AL

I think the main difficulty is that people may be counting different kinds of work. One person notices the time spent cleaning, while another feels responsible for remembering supplies, organizing the schedule, and asking for help. If they only count completed tasks, that difference can stay hidden. I would start by making the responsibilities clear and discussing which ones require regular attention. Then I would divide them according to available time and preferences, while keeping the overall effort reasonably balanced. Fairness does not have to mean an identical list for everyone. It means the arrangement feels understandable and can change when circumstances change.

CHECK · easy to overlook / divide responsibilities

You are planning a weekend camping trip and want to rent equipment. Call a rental shop and ask three or four questions about a two-person tent, pickup, and the rental terms.

IL

Hello. Is a two-person tent available? How much is it? When can I collect it? What is included?

IM

Hello, I would like to rent a two-person tent for this weekend. Is one available from Friday to Sunday? What is the total price? Does the package include poles and pegs? When can I pick it up?

IH

Hello, I am planning a camping trip from Friday to Sunday and would like to ask about a two-person tent. Could you confirm availability for those dates? What is the full rental price, including any deposit? Which parts are included in the package? Finally, when can I collect it, and what is the deadline for returning it?

AL

Hello, I am arranging a weekend camping trip and would like some information before reserving a two-person tent. First, do you have one available from Friday afternoon until Sunday evening? Second, could you explain the total rental price and whether a separate deposit is required? I would also like to confirm that the package includes all the poles, pegs, and other parts needed to set it up. Finally, what are the pickup hours and the exact return deadline? I want to check these details before making a reservation so that I can organize the trip properly.

You reserved the two-person tent for Friday to Sunday, but at pickup the shop gives you a one-person tent. Explain the problem and suggest two or three possible solutions.

IL

Hello. I reserved a two-person tent, but this one is smaller. Can you replace it or find another shop? Otherwise, I would like a refund.

IM

I reserved a two-person tent for this weekend, but the label says this is a one-person tent. Could you exchange it for the correct size? If none is available, could you arrange one from another branch? Otherwise, please refund the booking.

IH

Hello, my confirmation shows a two-person tent from Friday to Sunday, but the tent provided is for one person. It will not work for our trip. Could you first check whether the correct tent is available here? If not, could another branch provide one today? If neither option is possible, I would like to cancel and receive a full refund.

AL

Hello, I need help with the tent I am collecting for my weekend booking. My confirmation is for a two-person tent from Friday to Sunday, but the label on this package says it is a one-person model. There are two of us, so we cannot use it as planned. Could you exchange it for the correct tent before we leave this afternoon? If you do not have one here, could you arrange a confirmed pickup at another nearby branch? If neither solution is available, I would like a full refund so I can make another arrangement. Please confirm which option you can offer.

Tell me about a time rented or borrowed equipment was different from what you expected. Describe the problem, what you did, and the outcome.

IL

I once borrowed a tent with a missing pole. I checked the bag and contacted my friend. We found the pole before leaving.

IM

A friend once lent me a tent for a short trip. When I checked the bag, a pole was missing. I called my friend before leaving home. He found it in another bag, so I collected it and continued with the trip.

IH

Before a camping trip, I borrowed a tent from a friend. I assumed the bag contained everything, but I decided to check it the night before departure. One pole was missing. I sent my friend a photograph of the parts and asked him to look again. He found the pole in a separate bag. We solved the problem before it affected the trip.

AL

Last year, I borrowed a tent from a friend for a weekend trip. He had packed it after his previous holiday, so we both assumed that everything was inside the bag. The night before leaving, I spread the parts out at home and noticed that one pole was missing. I was relieved that I had checked early rather than discovered it at the campsite. I sent him a photograph so he could identify the missing piece. He found it in a second bag, and I collected it on my way out the next morning. Since then, I have checked borrowed equipment before depending on it.

Full Simulation 14

예측 가능성과 다양성이라는 공통 기준으로 비교하고 상황별 선택을 설명하세요.

Compare swimming at an indoor pool with spending time outdoors. What do you consider when choosing between them?

IL

An indoor pool is predictable. Outdoor activities offer different scenery. I choose based on the weather and my available time.

IM

Swimming indoors is easy to plan because the setting stays similar. Being outdoors gives me fresh scenery and more room to explore. On a busy day, I prefer the pool. With more time, I enjoy going outside.

IH

An indoor pool offers a clear routine and a fixed session time, which helps when my schedule is tight. Outdoor activities feel more varied because the scenery and conditions change. However, they may require more travel and preparation. I usually consider the weather, the people joining me, and how much time I have rather than declaring one option better in every situation.

AL

I see the main difference as predictability versus variety. At an indoor pool, I know roughly what the session will involve and how long I need, so it fits well into an ordinary workday. Outdoors, the scenery changes and there is more freedom to explore, which can make the experience feel special. The tradeoff is that I have to consider the weather, travel time, and what to bring. If I only have a short break, I choose the familiar routine. If I have a free afternoon and someone to join me, an outdoor plan may be more appealing. The best choice depends on the purpose of the day.

CHECK · predictability and variety / the tradeoff is

Q15 · 주민 행사 운영 의견

방문객과 주민의 필요를 함께 고려하고 사전 공지, 통행, 문의 창구, 정리의 우선순위를 말하세요.

How can a community hold enjoyable local events while reducing disruption for nearby residents? Explain your priorities.

IL

Organizers should share the schedule and keep noise reasonable. They should also clean the area after the event.

IM

A local event should be enjoyable for visitors and manageable for residents. Organizers can publish the schedule early, plan walking routes, and provide enough bins. Clear contact information also helps people report a problem.

IH

I would focus on clear information, sensible use of space, and reliable cleanup. Residents need to know when the event will begin and end. Visitors need obvious routes so they do not block entrances. Organizers should also explain how to report a problem. A smaller event that runs smoothly may be more valuable than a larger event that creates avoidable inconvenience.

AL

I would begin with the people who use the area every day. Visitors may enjoy the event for a few hours, but residents still need to enter their homes, rest, and use ordinary services. Sharing the schedule in advance and keeping entrances clear would be my first priorities. I would also make someone responsible for handling questions during the event, rather than leaving residents unsure whom to contact. Cleanup should be part of the plan from the beginning. These measures do not remove the fun from a festival. They help an enjoyable event become something that the community is willing to welcome again.

CHECK · keep entrances clear / plan from the beginning
